

STEM INSPIRATION

Monica Allison-Ceruti

Chief Attorney

Pursuing your dream begins here.

Who inspired you?

"My parents and my 7th grade mathematics teacher inspired my love for mathematics with four simple words: you can do this! I chose to become a lawyer, however, because it afforded me the greatest flexibility to pursue other goals and careers. For me, it was simply a little girl's dream to be like her father—strong, smart, caring and career military. I wanted to make my parents proud of me and they were very proud of me!"

Education

Bachelor of Arts in history from Grambling State University; Master of Science degree in international relations from Troy University; Master of Arts in computer resources and information management from Webster University; and a Juris Doctor in law from the University of Georgia.
