The information depicted on this survey map represents the results of surveys made on the dates indicated and can only be considered as indicating the general conditions existing at that time. These conditions are subject to rapid change due to natural and man-made factors. The map is a representation of the channel and its adjacent areas and is not intended for navigation. The scale of the map is provided for reference, and the actual distances on the ground may vary. The map is intended for use by trained professionals and should not be used by the general public for navigation. Additional imagery and data may be available for further analysis.
Galveston Entrance Channel: Entrance Channel